NATIONALIZATION
OF LANDS BRINGS
CANAL QUESTION

Royal Commission in Great Britain Has Already Reported Favoring Step

London, Oct. 25.—Outraged with the movement for the nationalization of land and railways comes a demand for the nationalization of the canals of the kingdom.

A royal commission has reported in favor of such a step, and it is now supplemented by municipal bodies like Birmingham, which urge nationalization on a national scale, and the expropriation of the canals of the present owners, as the only remedy for the present stagnation of the British canals.

It is pointed out that the multiplication of ownership strangles the development of the country. The average of these canals is only 21 miles. Indeed, there are seven ownerships between London and Birmingham.

The demand for canal nationalization has been revived largely as a consequence of the hostility of the railways to local traffic and their consequent increase in freight charges, which prevent the cheap transport of local goods. Incidentally it has been discovered that the railway companies own half the canals and hold them in ill-repute rather than allow water competition.

VACANT SEAT IN LONDON
PARLIAMENT Fought For

Believes Liberals Will Win Election for Position by Putting in Sir Rufus Isaacs.

London, Oct. 25.—The fight for the Reading seat in parliament made vacant by the appointment of Sir Rufus Isaacs to the Lord Chief Justiceship is now in full swing.

The liberals have nominated as their candidate Mr. J. P. Gosnell, who, although a celebrated historical student, is considered to be a bad politician.

The conservative unionist, however, has running Sir Rufus Isaacs, who is a well-known member of parliament, and has given Sir Rufus a hard fight on two occasions. It is generally conceded that the seat is as good as lost to the liberals.

Five by-elections are now pending and some hope to the will of the people to elect rule and other proposed legislation should be obtained by the results.

BANKER ARRESTED
CHARGE IS TRIFLE

Accused of Having Stolen $9,800 Worth of Dominion Glass Stock

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Albert James Reid, who maintained a suite of offices in the Transportation Building under the name of Reid and Company, bankers and brokers, was arrested yesterday and locked up at police headquarters. He was taken into custody by Inspector Gowan and Detective McCallum on a warrant charging him with having stolen 50 shares of Dominion Glass Company's stock, valued at $1500.

The warrant for the arrest of Reid was issued by Judge Lafontaine on complaint of Alexander M. McGowan, president of the Dominion Glass company.

Reid said he was 35 years of age and had been in Montreal about six months. He formerly resided in Philadelphia. He said that his home was in Winchester, Virginia.

The police have been watching Reid for some time and claim his correct name is J. A. Reid, and that his home is in Dallas, Texas.

U. S. TO WARN NATIONS
AGAINST INTERFERENCE IN MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Will Reiterate Principles of Monroe Doctrine and Assure Nations of Its Ability to Cope With Situation—Proclamation May Be Withheld Few Days.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The United States government is preparing to notify the nations of the world generally that any interference in Mexican affairs will be regarded as unfriendly to this government.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Counselor John Bassett Moore of the state department, have exchanged ideas on what the proclamation to the world should express. It will be communicated in due time to the governments everywhere in the world, the policy established earlier, of keeping other nations informed of every step taken in its handling of the Mexican problem.

The proclamation or note also will serve, it is understood, as an explicit definition of the policy of the United States towards the defective situation of the world, the principle that recognition can be given on this hemisphere only to governments furnished to the state department.

Earlier yesterday it was expected that it would be only a matter of a few hours when the proclamation would be made public, but last night it was practically decided to hold the matter in abeyance for several days, at least until after the election in Mexico, Sunday. Two things, it is known, have contributed to the delay in the direction of the foreign office, the direction of the government to define its policy—the presentation by Sir Lionel Gordon, the British minister to Mexico, of his credentials immediately after Huerta had proclaimed himself dictator, and the dispatch of several war vessels to Mexican waters.

The British embassy here yesterday, the direction of the foreign office, officially advised Secretary Bryan that the British government pronounced its attitude on the state of affairs in Mexico, credited to Sir Lionel, expressing the view that the United States did not understand conditions in Mexico.

French Attitude Placed.

Another incident last night that was regarded with significance was the assurance that came from Ambassador Jusserand to the state department that the French government, in sending a warship to Mexican waters, did not intend in any way to embarrass the United States.

Officials expressed satisfaction over the trend of the French government's attitude.

There is a possibility that if the powers indicate further unwillingness to embarrass the United States that this government may withhold its pronouncement, but some officials were of the opinion that sooner or later such a declaration, which they regarded as tantamount to a reaffirmation of the principles of the Monroe doctrine, may be required.

Administration officials generally maintained a severe reserve in regard to the Mexican affairs. They admitted that an acute and delicate situation existed early in the day, when word was received that the administration vessel, the Alcyon, had been detained. It was not revealed what orders were in preparation, but there was a noticeable relief in official circles when cablegrams announced the release of the ship.

Last night the disposition of the high officials of the government was to await the developments of the next 48 hours before making any move. President Wilson had some doubt about going to Mobile, Ala., to make an address on Monday before the southern commercial congress, but he felt friends here making any move. President Wilson was in frequent conference with the president during the day. Mr. Bryan called on the diplomatic corps that, even if his friends voted for him, he would not accept the presidency on the ground that it would be unconstitutional for him to succeed himself. Instance, as President Wilson in a note recently announced that the United States regarded the assumption of dictatorship by Huerta as a violation of the promise for a constitutional election, the result of this declaration is not calculated to have any considerable effect on the American policy.

To Uphold Huerta.

Mexico City, Oct. 25.—President Wilson's declaration that the United States regarded the assumption of dictatorship by Huerta as a violation of the promise for a constitutional election, the result of this declaration is not calculated to have any considerable effect on the American policy.

The dispatch was from General Herrero, federal commander at Monterrey. It said that the rebels, under Juan Huerta, numbering 4,000, attacked from the north and west, and fought their way to the outskirts of the city. They were battered by the artillery on the local garrison, who were reinforced by the troops of General Carranza, Peon and Anaya from Saltillo and Hidalgo after 19 hours of fierce fighting.

COMMISSIONERS ORGANIZED TO PROSECUTE COURT CLAIM

Man Who Has Claim on Property Worth Millions Too Poor to Press Claim.

London, Oct. 25.—Litigation which may rank with the famous Tichborne claimant case, is likely to result from the promotion of a company at Tunbridge Wells to prosecute a claim for the Fuller estates in Sussex and Devonshire, which have a total value of several millions sterling. The Sussex estates, near Brighton, comprise 600 acres of valuable property. Peter Fuller, the claimant, is a poor man living at Tunbridge.

GENERAL BOOTH
COMING TO CANADA

Thinks Canadians, Through Desire for Wealth, Are Self-Centred.

London, Oct. 25.—General William Franklin Booth, head of the Salvation Army, sails today on board the Lausania for New York. He will proceed to Toronto to attend the Dominion Salvation Army congress, which opens in November.

This will be his first visit to Canada and the United States. Great regions have been planned in his honor, both in New York and Toronto. He will also go to Winnipeg and Chicago.

The general is accompanied by Col. Kitchin, his private secretary.

General Booth, in an interview, said he expected to find in Canada many interesting and pressing problems caused by the influx of new population, increase in wealth and new activities of the country. "If I have any special message for Canada," he said, "it will be in view of the peculiar conditions which everyone here is working to climb the ladder and is inclined to get self-centered. Let us work together as a community for the benefit of the whole, for the benefit of those who cannot get to the top of the ladder."

The general said that the health problem was close to his heart and he wanted to get workers together to discuss it.

LABOR LEADER LOSING HOLD.

Dublin, Oct. 25.—Owing to the continued support of the deportation of strikers' children to England, James Connolly, "labor king of Ireland," is daily losing prestige, and under advice from priests the vast majority of his followers have broken from him on this point. His complete downfall is prophesied shortly.

INFERNAL MACHINE SENT
U. S. DEAD LETTER OFFICE

Explodes With Great Rattle When Opened by Army Officers.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Suspicious of a queer-looking piece of copper wire, a clerk in the dead letter office saved his life yesterday by sending for the police when he took the package cover off a little wooden box that had been turned over to him for inspection. Army officers at Washington barracks sent a charge of electricity into the box and it exploded with a great roar. The package, addressed to Frank Goldberg, Wellington, New Zealand, was mailed at Cincinnati with insufficient postage. Unable to locate the sender, the Cincinnati postmaster sent it to the dead letter office. It contained enough nitro-glycerine to have blown to pieces anyone who opened it.

Elective Form of Commission Government Discussed by Mayor Hindley of Spokane

Empire Auditorium Thronged With Two Thousand Enthusiastic Adherents of the Cause—Twentieth Century Business Administration Under Direct Control of the Citizens.

"A twentieth century business administration which places responsibility for every public act and participation in the economical organization of the city and efficient conduct of municipal government under direct control of the citizens."

"That was the slogan, the keynote and the war cry last night at the Empire Auditorium of one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever held in the city of Edmonton for the consideration of a public question."

No more fitting standard-bearer could by any possible chance have been chosen to represent and to carry the colors for the army of men and women who last night met to show their interest in and very apparent longing for the elective form of commission government."

Mr. W. J. Hindley, the mayor of Spokane, strode up and drew the platform at the Empire Auditorium last night, the very embodiment of a freewheeling and progressive spirit of the Golden West. Many a late arrival butlered counted all his former life's adventures in vain after listening for an hour to the trumpet tones of the mayor of Spokane.

Pearls and diamonds of civic wisdom and native humor were showered upon an audience which at the lowest count must have reached 2,000, and Mr. Hindley had got straight into the heart and heads of every one of the 2,000 ten minutes after he had begun.

After complimenting Edmonton as only a true westerner can compliment a true westerner, and after describing his visit to this city 19 years ago as a congregational minister and delegate to a church convention, Mr. Hindley plunged straight into the heart of the matter.

"In no better way," Mr. Hindley said, "can I indicate to you the impression which the form of municipal government which you have in Edmonton today makes upon me than by telling you of the Irish sailor who would be a policeman."

"That was ashore and out of work. Walking through a country road, he saw a farmer in a neighboring field plowing with the aid of two oxen, and an old gray mare in front to guide them. Pat asked for a job and was put to work plowing. All went well till the end of the furrow. Then the gray mare, the two oxen, chains, plow and reins became hopelessly mixed. In despair, Pat, the farmer crying out, 'Ter henry's name and save us quick.' 'What's the matter?' asked the farmer. 'No, Pat, the starboard ox is gone to starboard, the larboard ox is gone to larboard, the old gray mare is all going to H— together.'"

"The starboard ox is the council, the larboard ox is the commission, and the old gray mare is the mayor—and you know the rest."

"The Government," he declared, "in the last analysis exists in the consent of the governed, and I am here this night to maintain before you that in the form of city government is the consent of the governed so thoroughly confessed and admitted."

"The elective form of government, it must be no hybrid go-between—no government in which, nine-tenths, executive, nine-tenths legislative."

"I tell you my friends, I received many a job after I got on that council, but I did many things I never could have believed myself capable of. Imagine a Congressional minister walking through down Wall street in New York in the midst of all those big fellows with an old grip in one hand, containing $125,000 worth of city bonds."

In conclusion, Mr. Hindley asserted his conviction that the commission form of government was no passing fad, either in Spokane, or elsewhere.

"Commissionaries may come, and commissioners may go, but the elective commission form of government rests on forever."

In a fervent and impassioned appeal to the assembled citizens to take advantage of the approaching plebiscite and rescue a fair city from a state of chaos, the genial, eloquent and witty mayor sat down amid deafening and appreciative applause.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY, N. "CASCARETS" FOR THE CASCADING, CASCADING, CASCADING

No headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with Stim, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

LEGISLATION MAY BE PROPOSED THIS EVENING

Business of the Session Almost Completed at Last Night's Sitting.

PARTY LINES OBLITERATED ON MUNICIPALITIES BILL

Amendments to License Act Will Check Evils Complain in Connection With Clubs.

When the legislature adjourned last night, all the public mind was of the day, except a couple of statute amendments, and the revenue increment tax bill. The private bills should all go through in a hurry, excepting those amending the Calgary and Edmonton charters. If there are no further delays, the business of the session can be completed by 9 o'clock to-night, but this is by no means certain.

Party Lines Obliterated. The amendment to the rural municipalities act, always fruitful subjects for discussion, came up toward the end of the session. The committee of the whole considered. Such a variety of views has been expressed by the members of the house. Even Mr. John Glenister, the speaker of the house, broke his silence in connection with the amendment. Mr. Glenister was clearly not himself, because he immediately said that the amendment was a bad one. Mr. Speaker's seat. SMART MODELS FOR NEW FABRICS

EDITED BY MAY MANTON

Unhappily her mirror does not always speak the truth, for we are likely to see what we like to see, not what really is there; therefore, at this opening season, a note of warning may well be sounded.

FASHIONS at their best have been developed to a really attractive stage. The unwomanly and even pitiful exhibitions that have been seen for the past months do not represent correct style. If only the wearers themselves instead of their dress-makers would study their personal needs and the harmonious ensemble that M. Poiret so emphasizes, very fascinating, very good things would result. Again, designers and model-makers consider only the young. The middle-aged and the elderly must think for themselves. While it is never desirable to emphasize age, never a good thing to let go the spirit and the spring of youth, the wearing of over-bright colors and extremes of any sort only brings about the result it is aimed to avoid. The woman with throat that gives the unmistakable evidence of youth that is spent does not accomplish rejuvenation by the wearing of a blouse with an open neck. She is better gowned, more youthful in effect, more attractive in every way with a little chemisette that conceals the marks of time. A great many brilliant colors will be worn this autumn. The woman of fifty will do well to pass them by or to use them only in the bits that give life and brilliancy to the costume without creating a contrast that youth alone can withstand.

NEVER were such marvelous fabrics seen! Some of the silks are actually regal in effect and certainly regal in cost. No matter of what substance the threads are composed, the fabric is soft and pliable. Many of the silks designed for the leading dressmakers include metal threads that are rich and even superb and yet they can be drawn through the hand without crushing as easily and readily as mousseline itself. Chiffon velvet has come back to us in intensified beauty. It is shown by us in exquisite plain colors and also in a brocaded effect that is a genuine delight. Every possible variation of the velvet finish is to be used but perhaps nothing is more fascinating than the duvetyne that is woven of silk and wool, for the velvet finish and the depth of the nap give a richness and color that never before have been seen.

AMONG the advanced models exploited by a leading house are two costumes, one combining blue moire with black satin, one plain tulle with plaid. The blue and black costume consists of a draped skirt of black satin and a long belted coat of blue moire over which is adjusted a wide girle of the black. The suit of tulle consists of a plain three-piece skirt with curved, overlapping edges at the front and a charming loose coat. The skirt is all of the plain tulle with a band of this plaid finishing the front and lower edges. The coat is of the plaid with oddly shaped collar and cuffs of the plaid.

As has been stated in previous letters, a great many blouses of color contrasting with the skirt will be used in the making of three-piece costumes. A charmingly attractive model of the sort is made of blue serge with a kimono blouse of plaid sarab, but there is a wide pointed girle of the serge that comes well up on the bodies to give the costume life. Women who are seeking novelties for the early season will find this suggestion of value. The black or blue suit of the spring can be practically remodeled by the addition of a brightly colored crêpe or silk blouse with a deep girle or sash to match the skirt. While it is hardly likely that the "powers that be" have had such economy in mind, sashes, girdles, contrasting blouses and waistcoats are real helps to the woman who must count the cost. The new silks are already exploited and they are especially well adapted to such use. The plaids are ravishingly beautiful, by no means over-bright, the embroidered crêpes are more lovely than could well be described and both the brocades and the brocaded fabrics offer real treats of color and design.

SUCH wonderful afternoon toilets as result from the lovely materials and the beautiful colors! Everything that is picturesque is fashionable and the visiting hour allows the use of the richest fabrics. Among the novelties must be mentioned soft finished China crêpe hand embroidered, the designs for the most part taking the form of flowers in their natural colors as a bright ground, and the material is beautiful for blouse, waistcoats, etc. The ribbons of the season are marvels of beauty and of the manufacturer's art, and ribbon sashes are extensively worn with afternoon dresses. Often they give a note of bright color on a black or dark colored gown. Everything that shows a brocaded or broché effect is in the height of style. A great many exceedingly smart costumes combine one of these materials with a plain one and the blouses with plaited peplums are especially well liked for such combinations. In the picture is shown a gown with skirt of broché crêpe and a blouse of the same material in plain color with touches of velvet in the trimming, and the combination is both smart and handsome. For afternoon toilets both long and short skirts are to be worn, and almost every known variation of the blouse but the peplum and waistcoat ideas are conspicuous. Waists are ideal. The newest ones are made in kimono style, but are drawn about the figure to form graceful drapery. They are especially well adapted to the rich fabrics exploited for their making, and brocaded silk velvet and brocaded wool velours are made into waists that are very dreams of fascinating colors. As a matter of course plain material is used for trimming.

MAY MANTON'S FASHION NOTES.

JUST now we are fairly overwhelmed with the displays of beautiful fabrics, with new models that are temptingly offered and with daily telegrams that tell what Paris has to show. No less an authority than M. Poiret in a printed interview urges upon womankind the necessity for care and discrimination. He asserts that to be well dressed, one must be fittingly dressed and that every other consideration must be made subservient to the person. Never has there been greater need that such truth should be burned into the mind than at the present moment, for, while there is much that is ravishingly beautiful, there are many dangers for the unwary. Fashion always considers the avante figure in making her models. Since by no means all of us are built on such lines, it behooves each to study herself and to demand such adaptation as her own needs require. The prevailing silhouette gives breadth between the hips and the knees. Draperies are largely massed at the front of the skirt while the width about the feet is narrow. When these effects are well handled, exceedingly beautiful as well as smart costumes result but the woman who already has large hips and a slightly protruding abdomen is hopeless when so gowned.

tion, and Mr. Campbell, of Rocky Mountain, had been appointed to investigate the question. This committee had brought in a clause which would empower the city of Calgary to make arrangements with the protesting land owners. The minister believed that such agreements could be made fairly and equitably. He also read a telegram from the mayor of Calgary, stating that the city council, at Friday night's meeting, had agreed to come to a settlement with the owners, whose interests were affected. Should such settlements not be made prior to the next session of the legislature, he would suggest the appointment of a royal commission, composed of members of both sides, to take evidence under oath and deal impartially with the whole question.

Mr. Puffer and Mr. Campbell, who had not seen the committee's report, said that they were willing to do so, with the assurance of the minister that such a commission should be appointed.

Speaking to the amendment, Mr. Headley said he would like to have complete jurisdiction over the parliament building all lobbyists from Calgary. Among the many prominent citizens of Calgary, whom this would apply, were M. S. McCarthy, Mr. Pierce, Colonel Walker, Mr. Jones, Mr. Solicitor Ford, Alderman Frost, and others.

His Life Hanging in the Balance Love Faints Away in Witness Box

Gasps for Breath and Collapses While Being Questioned by Counsel—Court Adjourns for Twenty Minutes—Prisoner Adds Another Variation to Stories of Shooting Affray.

At 2:30 this afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against the prisoner, who was sentenced to imprisonment for life in Edmonton.

Apparently overpowered by a sudden realization of the serious charge against him, the prisoner, who had been in the witness box for some time, collapsed and fell back into his seat. He was then taken to the hospital, where he remained in a unconscious state to the jury room.

The prisoner's counsel had asked him to answer several questions when he suddenly became silent and was seen to gasp for breath. Several times police rushed to his assistance, but before they could reach him, his minor face is decidedly against him, no one present could have the impulse to pity the terrified and apparently exhausted man.

His testimony was obtained to adjourn the trial until tomorrow, the prisoner's examination was continued, the prisoner having sufficiently recovered to maintain the best of his faculties.

The story which the accused man himself told the opposite counsel during examination and cross-examination, the prisoner added another variation to his story, which was that he had been in the witness box for some time, and that he had been in the witness box for some time, and that he had been in the witness box for some time.

WASTE ENERGY AND NO CO-OPERATION AMONG SOCIETIES

Welfare Association Receives
Report of Committee on Relief Organizations.

ENDORSEMENT COMMITTEE
SHOULD BE APPOINTED

Approved Societies to Be Given
Endorsement Cards to Be Shown When Soliciting Subscriptions.

A meeting of the Edmonton Welfare Association was held at the industrial commission's offices in the city yesterday afternoon. A. T. Cushing, chairman of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Welfare League, presided, and there were present: Dr. J. R. Riddell, M. R. Jennings, C. J. Gibbs, John Blue, T. R. Turah, H. A. Anderson, William Parrish, George Kenway, Mrs. A. W. Wheeler, Mrs. D. Boyner and others. The meeting was called to hear the report of a committee appointed to examine into matters of relief and unemployment and to make recommendations for bettering methods at present in vogue in Edmonton. An excellent outline of the committee's findings and of what it is proposed to do at the start of welfare work in Edmonton, is found in the report of this committee, made up of A. T. Cushing, John Blue, H. C. Anderson, M. Anderson, taking the place of R. B. Chadwick who was called away from the city and was, therefore, unable to serve on the committee for the time being. Following is the report as amended in one or two minor particulars by yesterday's meeting.

The committee has to report that these different organizations are at work:

1. The city relief and employment office.
2. The United Aids.
3. The Danish mission.
4. The relief department of the Hebrew community.
5. The Sunshine department of the Journal.
6. The city mission.
7. The League home.
8. Salvation Army.

As far as the enquiries of the committee have gone, we find that most of the organizations are doing good work. In one organization, owing to lack of records and improper management, considerable indebtedness, have incurred, and it is not in a satisfactory position.

In the opinion of the committee there are two things necessary in connection with work being done at present. First: It should be made impossible for any organization which is not doing effective work to obtain support from the public generally.

Second: In the case of societies which are doing good work there is a lack of co-operation, and owing to this there is waste of energy, and in some cases undeserving people get more help than they are entitled to. This should be remedied.

We recommend that a committee should be organized which should be called an "endorsing committee." The duties of this committee would be to investigate all the organizations which are soliciting subscriptions from the public generally for relief work, or for any other philanthropic or charitable enterprise. If it is found by this committee that the organization is doing effective work, it would be entitled to the endorsement card of the committee which may be used when soliciting subscriptions. If the organization is not conducted properly, and consequently not effective, it will not be endorsed and will therefore have difficulty in getting public support.

We recommend further that this committee working through the leaders of all organizations, shall seek to formulate a plan by which all those engaged in relief work shall be brought together in a way that overlapping and its consequent evils shall be eliminated, and the whole work organized on an efficient basis.

We propose that the endorsing committee shall consist of at least seven members appointed as follows:

1. One member appointed by the Roman Catholic church.
2. One appointed by the Ministerial association of Protestant churches.
3. One appointed by the trades and labor council.
4. One appointed by the city council.
5. One appointed by the Hebrew church.
6. One appointed by the Edmonton Welfare association.

The names of the total committee thus appointed will be presented to the city council for its approval, and this committee will be requested to report to the Edmonton Welfare association.

In regard to the question of unemployment and the best means to meet the situation, which is already of serious importance in the city, we suggest that a committee be appointed by this association from its members who shall make a careful study of the whole situation, and shall make such recommendations as it sees fit for the improvement of conditions in this regard in the city.

This report was taken up in sections and fully discussed, and finally adopted in a whole after the several small changes had been made. It was decided to go forward with a movement for membership to the Edmonton branch of the association and a membership fee of $2 was fixed and a campaign for several hundred members will be started at once. The work of the association was given further Offensive Breath Caused Usually by Catarrh A Simple Remedy Discovered That Cures Without Drugs.

The American people suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. It undermines more constitutions and creates more sickness than all other diseases combined. It is, therefore, very dangerous. You can't successfully treat Catarrh by internal dosing—you must in some way send a purifying, healing agent through the breathing organs, so that the germs can be reached. This you do every time you inhale Catarrhazone. Its rich essences and healing balsams are breathed all through the nose, throat and lungs, and effectively destroy every trace of Catarrh. This is a proven fact.

I endorse Catarrhazone because I know of six bad cases of Catarrh, including my own, that it has cured. It is a sensible remedy because it is capable of going where the disease is. I believe it cures quicker than other remedies because it gets sooner to the source of the disease than anything else I know of. I had headache, bad breath, and much stomach trouble associated with my Catarrh, but they have disappeared since using Catarrhazone, which keeps me free from colds, headaches, catarrh and all winter ills. (OTTO E. KILMIST, Belleville, Ont.)

Catarrhazone is needed in every home. Large size, 12 months' price $1.00; small size, 50c; trial size, 25c. All storekeepers and druggists or The Catarrhazone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PANACEA FOUND TO CURE ALL OUR EARTHLY AILMENTS

Dream of Ages on Eve of Achievement is Hope of
Dr. Ehrlich.

The Panacea, or drug that will cure all disease, was the dream of the ancient student of medicine. It has not yet been found, nor is it likely to be; yet there is at least one great medical authority who expects to discover it. The one particular class of diseases—namely, those caused by bacterial infection. There is nothing liberal in the idea of a substance that is fatal to all bacterial organisms, but we know already of such substances, but unfortunately those with which we are familiar will kill the patient as well. In an address before the recent International Congress of Medicine, in London, Professor Paul Ehrlich, famous as the discoverer of salvarsan, announced his hope of obtaining what he calls a "complete radical cure" of all infective diseases. His lecture was reviewed in the "Hospital," London. Says this paper:

"Many people associate Ehrlich simply with the much-tubed 'salvarsan,' his sensational discovery of three years ago, and, outside bacteriological circles, this is perhaps his chief claim to fame. It is to realize, however, that Ehrlich is a man of most exceptional range, whose bold speculation and imaginative theories have been the outstanding features of bacteriological progress since the year 1890. For 14 years, backed by masses of facts, patiently accumulated and ably arranged, Ehrlich's theories have won appreciation and acceptance all over the world long before the conception of his 'complete sterilising marga' (great sterilizing cure) was given to the world, or salvarsan was invented and put upon the market."

In the general address Professor Ehrlich dealt fully with his theories. He was at great pains to defend his "complete radical cure" idea of dealing with infective diseases.

What he aims at—and had at first hoped to accomplish with salvarsan—is to find some substance so similar to the micro-organisms and parasite of disease that a single injection of it shall kill every one of them existing in the patient. This, which, as a matter of fact, probably has been accomplished as things are, not only by such dose of some powerful bactericide as would kill the patient too, Ehrlich's ideal is to find a drug which will kill off the parasites, and yet do no harm to their host, the patient.

This thing, conception, nothing less than the cure of all infective diseases by one dose of one winter-working drug, has not yet been attained, needless to say. But Ehrlich believes he will attain it, or at least that it is attainable, and his accomplishments in the past have been so exceptional that it is not too much to expect to deny altogether the possibility of his dream being realized. Salvarsan, it is now fairly well established, is effective against a good many infective diseases, though it has not immediate curative effect which it would have. Still, it is certainly the most potent drug in existence, and it behooves us to remember that in its synthetic organic material salvarsan triumphs over organic material which would have been deemed totally impossible a few years ago. New synthetic chemistry is an infant science at present, whereas materia medica is not, and there is no telling what the future may bring about. Ashrich as Professor Ehrlich's defense of his theories was, his audience thoroughly enjoyed his address, and he was given a great ovation by the press.

It will not be so surprising if by the time of the next international congress in London, Ehrlich's name has been promoted to the company of the immortals, Lister, Pasteur, Koch, and others. As a matter of interest, he is now 60 years old, so that if he lives to the age of 80, he will be in London after a similar interval of time to that which elapsed between his first conception of his theory and its execution. He will be well over 90 years of age.
